WHEN HIS GODDESS TURNED INTO A SLUT HE DETERMINED TO WIN HIS RACE... AND CONQUER HIMSELF

I COULDN'T STAY ASLEEP. I woke up, as I'd been doing all night, and looked at my watch. Five to the morning. I closed my eyes and tried to make my mind blank, but I could hear the wind rushing in on the sand 100 yards away and I was convinced that in four hours the race would begin. • Four short hours and I'd be in the Atlantic Coast, starting north to a place five miles away. I wanted sleep, but I knew I wouldn't get any more. I got up, lit a cigarette, then put it out. Jesus, smoking was death on the wind. I went to my wriston and looked out. Fog again. September on the south Jersey coast. Chasing. Everything was wet—the bed sheets, the towel, my pajamas. I went back to the bed, held the cigarette and smoked in the dark.

THAMES-TATION

ONE JOLLY FINE day in London Town, actress Tina Giles received by post an invitation for a bit of a lark on the river aboard a fine gentlemen's boat. Imagine her surprise when the bloody punt turned out to be about the size of Liverpool with a rudder! "Yolks," she shrieked, and proceeded to cast clothes and caution to the wind. The result was carefully recorded, and our joy to see Up the royal flag! ☺
